Balanced Life

#1: Identify Activities

Brought to you by The Emotion Machine

This is a very simple worksheet to help you identify common activities you take part in on a daily basis. Just leave a check next to each item. After going through each category you should have a general overview of how you spend your time. Feel free to add any activities I might've missed to the bottom of each category.

Please Note: For many activities there will be overlap between one or more categories. Don't worry about this and just add items to the category you feel fits best.
